

Please do not remove the CW requirments from Amateur Radio. Being a ham operator since 1961, the mystery of being able to communicate worldwide using morse code, is what drove me to become a ham. In todays world ANYONE can communicate throughout the world with computers or cell phones. Let the requirement remain so the Amateur Radio hobby will continue to provide the cream of the crop in radio operators. Just listen to the Citizens band and you will have a good idea of what Amateur Raido will become if the requirement is lifted. Lets keep the standard high so we may have pride in our hobby while providing the public service we always have. Thank you.
